INTRODUCTION

TAMEZIN encourages families, and especially women of all ages and cultures from every sector of society, to reach their potential through formal and informal educational projects.

TAMEZIN is committed to fulfilling its responsibilities in safeguarding and promoting the welfare of all young persons under eighteen years of age and vulnerable adults. Where Child Protection or Safeguarding is referred to in this document, it also applies to Vulnerable Adults. A definition of Vulnerable Adults is provided in Appendix A.

What is the difference between safeguarding and the protection of children or vulnerable adults?

Safeguarding refers to the policies and practices that organisations employ to keep children and vulnerable adults safe and promote their wellbeing while they are under their care.

Protection is the term used to describe the activity undertaken to prevent the suffering of specific children or vulnerable adults who are at risk of significant harm. In particular, this entails the recording and reporting of concerns.

Child abuse

Child abuse is a general term used to describe situations where a child may experience ill treatment or impairment of development. This may occur in a number of different settings, including the home. It may include both actions and omissions on the part of parents and carer, but other close family members or friends may be involved. Child abuse is normally defined under one or more of the following headings:

- Physical abuse
- Neglect
- Sexual abuse
- Emotional abuse

It is important to recognise that abuse is a multi-faceted concept and many children who have been abused will have experienced more than one form of abuse. Children can be put at risk of harm by a variety of behaviours. This list is not exhaustive but can include:

- domestic violence
- drug and alcohol abuse
- gangs, 'county lines' and serious youth violence
- female genital mutilation
- forced marriages
- exploitation by organised crime groups
- trafficking
- online abuse
- sexual exploitation
- the influences of extremism leading to radicalisation

See appendix 8: 'Types and Indications of Abuse'.

POLICY

1.1 Statement of Intent

TAMEZIN will take all reasonable steps, through its policy guidelines and procedures, to ensure the health, safety and welfare of all the young people involved in its activities. It is committed to providing a safe and enjoyable environment that enables young people to develop their full potential as individuals while protecting them from all physical, sexual and emotional harm.

1.2 Legal Framework

This policy is written in the wider context of the following:

- The Children Act 1989 This allocates duties to local authorities, courts, parents, and other agencies in the United Kingdom, to ensure children are safeguarded and their welfare is promoted. It centres on the idea that children are best cared for within their own families; however, it also makes provisions for instances when parents and families do not co-operate with statutory bodies.
- The Children Act 2004 This amended the Children Act 1989, largely in consequence of the Victoria Climbié Inquiry, a report presented to Parliament by Lord Laming in 2003.

The horrific case of Victoria Climbié concerns a little girl who, having been brought to this country from the Ivory Coast by a relative for 'a better life', ended her days on 25 February 2000 after enduring months of almost unimaginable cruelty.

Extract from the Victoria Climbié Inquiry 2001:

The suffering and death of Victoria was a gross failure of the system and was inexcusable. It is clear to me that the agencies with responsibility for Victoria gave a low priority to the task of protecting children. They were underfunded, inadequately staffed and poorly led. Even so, there was plenty of evidence to show that scarce resources were not being put to good use. Bad practice can be expensive. For example, had there been a proper response to the needs of Victoria when she was first referred to Ealing Social Services, it may well be that the danger to her would have been recognised and action taken which may have avoided the need for the later involvement of the other agencies. Even after listening to all the evidence, I remain amazed that nobody in any of the key agencies had the presence of mind to follow what are relatively straightforward procedures on how to respond to a child about whom there is concern of deliberate harm.

The primary purpose of The Children Act 2004 was to give boundaries and help for local authorities and/or other entities to better regulate official intervention in the interests of children. It places new duties on employers and training providers including a requirement to safeguard and promote welfare, to share information where necessary and appropriate and to contribute to any inspection of children's services. Anyone working with children should follow the principles of the Children Acts 1989 and 2004 - that state that the welfare of children is paramount.

- The Safeguarding Vulnerable Groups Act 2006. This provided a system for Employers to check the suitability of Employees or Volunteers to work with children or vulnerable adults. The Act was established to try and solve the failures identified by the 2004 Bichard Inquiry.

The Bichard inquiry was a public inquiry into child protection, produced after the subsequent media attention around the Soham murders, where two young girls were murdered in Cambridgeshire by their school caretaker, Ian Huntley. The three former barred lists (POCA, Protection of Vulnerable Adults (POVA) and List 99) were integrated into this 2006 Act and replaced by two new ISA-banned lists: one for people prevented from working with children and one for those prevented from working with vulnerable adults.

Extract from the Bichard Inquiry 2004:

In the days following Huntley's conviction, there was widespread public disquiet when it became clear that he had been known to the authorities over a period of years. In fact, he had come to the attention of Humberside Police in relation to allegations of eight separate sexual offences from 1995 to 1999 (and had been investigated in yet another). This information had not emerged during the vetting check, carried out by Cambridgeshire Constabulary at the time of Huntley's appointment to Soham Village College late in 2001.

- The Care Act 2014
The Care Act 2014 sets out a clear legal framework for how local authorities and other parts of the system should protect vulnerable adults who are at risk of abuse or neglect.
- Working together to safeguard children 2018, 2023 (and to be revised following a 2024 consultation)

The policy document Working Together to Safeguard Children (2018) sets out how organisations and individuals should work in partnership to safeguard and promote the welfare of children. This is the updated version of previous documents of the same name dated 2006, 2010 and 2015. The 2018 version reflects developments in legislation, policy and practice. This guidance outlines the key responsibilities for those who have specific duties to safeguard children.

Extract from Working Together to Safeguard Children 2018:

Children may be vulnerable to neglect and abuse or exploitation from within their family and from individuals they come across in their day-to-day lives. These threats can take a variety of different forms, including: sexual, physical and emotional abuse; neglect; exploitation by criminal gangs and organised crime groups; trafficking; online abuse; sexual exploitation and the influences of extremism leading to radicalisation. Whatever the form of abuse or neglect, practitioners should put the needs of children first when determining what action to take.

Children are clear about what they want from an effective safeguarding system. These asks from children should guide the behaviour of practitioners. Children have said that they need

- vigilance: to have adults notice when things are troubling them
- understanding and action: to understand what is happening; to be heard and understood; and to have that understanding acted upon

- stability: to be able to develop an ongoing stable relationship of trust with those helping them
- respect: to be treated with the expectation that they are competent rather than not
- information and engagement: to be informed about and involved in procedures, decisions, concerns and plans
- explanation: to be informed of the outcome of assessments and decisions and reasons when their views have not met with a positive response
- support: to be provided with support in their own right as well as a member of their family
- advocacy: to be provided with advocacy to assist them in putting forward their views
- protection: to be protected against all forms of abuse and discrimination and the right to special protection and help if a refugee

Anyone working with children should see and speak to the child; listen to what they say; take their views seriously; and work with them and their families collaboratively when deciding how to support their needs.

1.3 General Principles

It is important to note that TAMEZIN club leaders or helpers are not responsible for deciding whether abuse has taken place. We are responsible for recording and reporting any concerns in a timely manner to ensure we are working together to safeguard children, young people and vulnerable adults, under arrangements in place within this Policy.

The responsibility to safeguard children, young people and vulnerable adults rests with all Tamezin club leaders and helpers.

Effective safeguarding is achieved by putting children at the centre of the system and by every individual and agency playing their full part. This child centred approach is fundamental to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of every child. A child centred approach means keeping the child in focus when making decisions about their lives and working in partnership with them and their families. Recognising abuse or neglect and acting on it is a major element of safeguarding; however, Tamezin club leaders and helpers must strive at all times to keep children and young people safe from a much wider range of potential harmful influences and aim for preventative action, not just reaction.

1.4 Roles and Responsibilities

TAMEZIN Trustees

- Take reasonable steps to protect any person who attends activities run by Tamezin.
- Undertake Safeguarding training on joining the board.

Safeguarding Lead Trustee (SLT)

- Take on a monitoring role to ensure that Tamezin is following good practice and that policies are up-to-date.
- Prepares an annual safeguarding report to the board of Trustees.

TAMEZIN Designated Safeguarding Lead (DSL)

- Undertake Safeguarding Level 2 and 3 training annually.
- Ensure that working arrangements are in place to safeguard and promote the welfare of children, young people and vulnerable adults.
- Make decisions in respect to reported incidents.
- Update the safeguarding policy annually and work with the DDSL and SLT to prepare a safeguarding report for the Board of Trustees.
- Support and advise club leaders and helpers on all safeguarding matters, including health and safety procedures.
- Investigate any allegations against club leaders or helpers (unless they concern herself, in which case the DDSL will undertake the investigation in consultation with the SLT).
- Liaise with club leaders to ensure that helpers are updated with current safeguarding procedures, and that procedures as dictated by the policy are adhered to.
- Ensure that club leaders and helpers are DBS certified (PVG certified in Scotland), undertake training and attend a briefing whenever appropriate.
- Take responsibility for the management and processing of all safeguarding concerns and disclosures. Whenever necessary, liaise with external agencies such as the police and Local Authority Safeguarding Children Partnerships.
- Monitor the development of any children on the child protection register and liaise with the child's social worker.
- Ensure that relevant information about a child or vulnerable adult at risk is disseminated to those working with them.

All Club Leader and Helpers

- Undertake safeguarding training and attend briefing sessions given by the DSL.

Preventative Measures

2.1 Recruitment of club leaders and helpers

Safeguarding checks

The recruitment of all club leaders and helpers to posts involving direct contact with children or vulnerable adults and/or sensitive information relating to such groups will be carried out by the relevant Management Committee and in accordance with careful checks made by the Disclosure & Barring Service (DBS).

Disclosure means sharing sensitive personal information. The Disclosure and Barring Service checks and shares information about people's criminal records and helps employers make safer recruitment decisions each year by processing and issuing DBS checks for England, Wales, the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man. The DBS also maintains the adults' and children's Barred

Lists and makes considered decisions as to whether an individual should be included on one or both of these lists and barred from engaging in regulated activity. The DBS is an executive non-departmental public body, sponsored by the Home Office.

Disclosure Scotland, a government-run agency that acts on behalf of Scottish Ministers, provides all basic disclosures – known as PVG (Protection of Vulnerable Groups) checks - for citizens of Scotland.

The appropriate check is needed for either country, because Disclosure Scotland and DBS have different rules on what is considered a spent conviction. A conviction is spent quicker in England and Wales than in Scotland. If a basic disclosure is obtained in Scotland for a job in England, that employer will see information it is not entitled to. This becomes a breach of the UK's Data Protection Act 1998 and of General Data Protection Regulations (GDPR).

It will be made clear to anyone intending to work in a club on a regular basis will need an enhanced DBS or PVG check.

If the DBS check reveals information that potentially impacts upon an existing person's suitability to work with children or vulnerable adults, that person will be immediately removed from that work pending a review by the Safeguarding Lead in collaboration with managers and directors.

All club leaders and volunteer information relating to CRB/DBS/PVG practices will be handled and stored in accordance with the "Code of Practice - Secure Storage, Handling, Use, Retention and Disposal of Criminal Records Bureau/Disclosure and Barring Service – Recruitment and Club leaders and Helpers Checks".

Principles in Practice: Safeguarding Children Attending Activities

3.1 Code of Good Conduct: Working with children

All adults working with young people must maintain the highest professional standards in their work and in their relationships with young people. Set out below is Tamezin's code of good conduct to be followed by all involved in this valuable work with young people. Before participating in activities carried out on behalf of Tamezin, within its centres and elsewhere, leaders and helpers must agree to abide by this code. Leaders are adults who have an ongoing role in the provision of Tamezin activities for young people, while helpers are those over the age of 16 involved only in specific activities.

- Leaders and helpers working for Tamezin will treat each young person with equal respect and consideration, without favouritism, and ensure his or her safety and welfare at all times.

- Leaders and helpers will endeavour to familiarise themselves with all guidelines distributed by Tamezin on safeguarding welfare, child protection and safety issues while involved in running activities carried out on behalf of Tamezin. The Tamezin Safeguarding Lead will ensure that details of all developments reach each leader and helper working with young people.
- Leaders and helpers working for Tamezin will always take great care over what they say to young people and the way they say it.
- All situations, actions and language that compromise a relationship of trust with young people are to be avoided.
- Leaders and helpers are to: a) think and act carefully about taking risks with the safety of young people; and b) avoid situations that could lead to difficulties, temptations or accusations of abuse, or where a young person may misunderstand a leader's actions or intentions. Training will be made available on practical applications of these principles.
- Any physical contact with a child should always be within the context of the Tamezin policies. Leaders and helpers are to be clear about what is appropriate and inappropriate physical contact with young people, avoiding any contact that could be misunderstood. Practical examples will be outlined in their training on such issues.
- Club leaders and helpers are to avoid making physical contact with any child unless it is unavoidably necessary within the context of their professional duties. They shall also avoid physical horseplay or taking part in contact games where there is a danger that others might misinterpret their actions, no matter how innocently intentioned. Practical examples will be outlined in their training on such issues.
- All club leaders and helpers will have a clearly specified role within each activity, to be understood by both them and the young people in attendance. In this way, no one will be in contact with young people who do not have a reason to be present at the activity in an official capacity.
- Club leaders and helpers must never swear, use sexual innuendo or sexual references.
- If a young person wishes to speak exclusively with a leader or helper, or vice versa, this one-to-one conversation shall take place in a public place or in a room designed to be open to view by others: there should be clear glass in the door, or the door should be left open. The room in which the leader or helper is based should not be isolated from other areas of the building.
- In one-to-one situations careful consideration should be given to seating arrangements: the leader or helper should sit opposite the child unless a specific task such as reading together necessitates sitting alongside. It should also be borne in mind that some children may need to sit facing the door or a window.

- Sleeping accommodation, shower and changing facilities for young people and helpers under 18 will always be separate from those for leaders and helpers over 18.
- All activities are to be planned thoroughly by the leaders, so as to eliminate any situations where it may be possible for young people to be abused, such as when contact is unobserved.
- The leader of the activity will ensure that a risk assessment is carried out in the planning stage of each activity and that safety procedures (including those for first aid provision) are followed at all times.
- The leader of the activity will ensure that all in attendance know of safety and emergency procedures in each location where activities take place.
- There will be at least two supervisors involved in each activity, however few young people participate. A minimum ratio of 2:10 (two adults to ten young people) will be maintained for all activities. For a group consisting of young people and 16 to 18 year olds, the ratio of leaders and helpers for the 16 to 18 year olds will be 1:10.
- A clear indication of start and end times for each programmed activity will be published within information sheets by the so that young people can arrive and leave promptly.
- Parents or guardians are to fill out: a) a consent and contact form; b) a dietary and medical details form, either annually or before any residential activity away from the centre.
- No personal details of young people, including photographs with identifiers such as first name and surname, shall be published on websites or in publications. Photographs of young people may only be published with the signed consent of parents or guardians.
- Any personal or sensitive details, photographs and images of children must be stored in line with laws concerning General Data Protection Regulations.
- With advances in technology, especially with mobile phones being able to record and transmit images, leaders and helpers must be extra vigilant. Whilst a ban on the use of mobile phones is not practical and would be difficult to police, club leaders and helpers should certainly challenge any persons using recording equipment without consent. Club leaders and helpers should remain vigilant for the misuse of recording equipment in open public spaces where young people and vulnerable adults are in attendance.

- If club leaders or helpers are required to administer first aid to any child either as the result of abuse or just the result of an accident they should observe the following guidelines:
 - Where possible two persons should be present and/or the parent.
 - The door to the first aid room should always be kept open unless it has a clear glass panel, and leaders must avoid isolating themselves from view while dealing with the child.
- Club leaders and helpers must remain vigilant for alcohol, drug or substance abuse, or indeed the sale of drugs or similar activities.
- Club leaders and helpers should bear in mind that abuse may also occur between children of the same age or of an age which falls within the range of the Children Act 1989 and 2004 and Working Together to Safeguard Children 2018 and 2023 (anyone who has not yet reached their 18th birthday). Such abuse normally manifests itself as bullying. Within this context, extra vigilance should be observed where children who have special needs, disabilities or are from an ethnic minority are involved. In certain instances, bullying may occur inadvertently. Bullying is unacceptable behaviour. Leaders and helpers who witness or suspect bullying must intervene immediately and stop the practice. Leaders must be alert particularly to the dangers of online bullying, which can cause extreme distress to the victim. More information about online bullying can be found in Appendix 8.

Principles in Practice: The Protection of Children and Vulnerable Adults

4.1 General Guidelines

This Policy only relates to activities undertaken within Tamezin premises or instigated and supervised by club leaders and helpers of Tamezin.

Through the organisation's commitment to safeguarding the welfare of children and vulnerable adults, all club leaders and helpers engaged on Tamezin business must immediately report any concerns they may have to the local Safeguarding Coordinator.

The person voicing the concern, or the local Safeguarding Coordinator, should complete the Child/Vulnerable Adult Disclosure form and report the matter to the Tamezin Safeguarding Lead. The Safeguarding Lead will in turn liaise with the Local Authority Safeguarding Children's Partnership if necessary.

If a member of the public makes a club leader or helper aware of any suspicion which falls outside of the above scope, the individual must be encouraged to contact the Police or Social Services. In these circumstances, club leaders or helpers must complete the Child/VA Protection Form and comply with the reporting procedure.

All club leaders or helpers are required to report any suspicion or concern as soon as possible.

If club leaders or helpers are made aware of an incident on Tamezin premises or at a Tamezin managed event, and the suspect has left the premises, they should, where possible, record and report their concern by completing the Child/VA Disclosure Form and comply with the reporting procedure. If a member of the public reports a suspicion whilst the suspect is still on the premises the Tamezin office and/or the Safeguarding Lead should be alerted.

In an emergency contact with the Police, Social Services or Child Protection Officer must be made immediately. Club leaders and helpers must follow this up when it is safe to do so by completing the Form and comply with the reporting procedure.

In all instances, the reporting of suspicions or incidents must be kept confidential. All reports will contain sensitive data and are subject to General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR).

It is considered good practice to inform any persons that you intend to refer their conduct or actions to the appropriate authority. However, the following exceptions apply:

- If sexual abuse is suspected within the family
- If there is evidence of fabricated or induced illness
- If to do so would place the child in more danger
- If to do so would place the club leader or helper in danger.

4.2 What to do if a child or vulnerable adult wants to disclose something

A disclosure is the term used when a child or vulnerable adult speaks about an abusive situation.

Your role is to listen. You have to make it clear to them that you cannot keep the information to yourself. It is important when you begin any work with a child or vulnerable adult that you establish boundaries around confidentiality and explain clearly what information you will have to share and with whom you will need to share it.

It is important to remember that, although a single event may create a serious risk to the person's wellbeing, it is often the accumulation of events, each of which may appear small, that causes serious harm.

Where immediate action is needed to protect the safety of one or more adults, information must be passed to the appropriate person, the Tamezin Office or, in emergency situations that you feel are of a serious life threatening nature, the Police, Emergency Services or Social Services.

4.3 Code of Good Conduct: Listening to children or vulnerable adults

- Do not try to get children or vulnerable adults to “disclose”; in particular, avoid asking leading questions.
- Be accessible and receptive.
- Listen carefully to what they have to say and make a careful note of what was said as soon as possible.
- Do not make promises you cannot keep. In particular, avoid promising to keep the matter secret: you are under an obligation to report all suspicions or concerns.
- Always take children and vulnerable adults seriously and reassure them that they are right to speak out.
- Where possible, two members of club leaders or helpers should be present if there is any contact with a member of the public suspected of acting inappropriately.

If you suspect abuse to have taken place, have witnessed it taking place or you have received a report of abuse you should respond by:

- Remaining calm and not showing shock or disbelief
- Demonstrate a sympathetic approach by acknowledging regret and concern that what has been reported has happened
- Ensure that any emergency action needed will be taken
- Confirm that the information given to you is treated seriously
- Give them information about what steps you will take with the information given
- Inform them that you or a senior club leader or helper will feedback with the results of any action
- Give the person details of how to contact you so that they can report any further issue, concern or questions that may arise. (Follow the Tamezin guidelines regarding the sharing of personal details.)

GUIDE FOR DEALING WITH SAFEGUARDING DISCLOSURES

A child or vulnerable adult has made a disclosure to you

Stay calm
If the child or adult is present reassure her
Do not promise confidentiality
Keep questions to a minimum

Fill in the disclosure form and record it as URGENT
Inform the Designated Safeguarding Lead immediately

Designated Safeguarding Lead to review disclosure and decide appropriate course of action, referring to external agencies as appropriate

4.4 Reporting Concerns

- All disclosures made by children or vulnerable adults must be treated seriously and whilst the sensitivity and confidentiality of the situation should be respected, such disclosures should be reported immediately. Each club leader has available the disclosure form which must be filled in and sent to the Designated Safeguarding Lead as a matter of urgency. The contact details of the DSL and Trustees
- If through observation or interaction with children or vulnerable adults you suspect that abuse may be occurring, even if they do not confide in you directly, you must report your concerns to the relevant Management Committee as soon as possible and complete the incident form. Make a note of the location, date and time of any incident, any people present, and anything said – verbatim if possible.

- Maintain confidentiality at all times: do not disclose your concerns to any person other than your Line or Senior Manager, or the TAMEZIN Safeguarding Lead.
- Understand your role. You are not expected to make decisions whether abuse is occurring or not.
- Do not directly accuse any person of child abuse, speculate or jump to conclusions.
- Club leaders and helpers reporting incidents should wherever possible inform the parent/carer that they intend to report their concern. In cases where it would put club leaders or helpers at risk of harm this should not be disclosed to the parent/carer, but the reporting procedure should be followed. Club leaders and helpers should not agree with a child when asked to keep disclosures of a potential abuser a secret.
- Always act with extreme caution. Find help quickly if necessary.
- If you suspect a crime has taken place you must contact the Police.
- Record and report everything you have heard, suspected, or witnessed with whatever your action has been as soon as you can. Pass on the information internally through the appropriate channels, unless you need to alert the emergency services (in which case you will pass on all information and your action when completed). Send these details to the appropriate local Safeguarding Coordinator, who will liaise with the Safeguarding Lead and the Tamezin Trustees
- See Appendix 7 for further details of procedures to follow when reporting abuse of vulnerable adults.

4.5 Direct observation leading to Intervention

- If in the course of the investigation you observe abuse taking place, intervention may be required to protect and safeguard the child or vulnerable adult.
- Intervention is defined as being any direct action which is taken to safeguard the recipient of the suspected abuse which is over and above observing the suspect or merely completing the Child/Vulnerable Adult Protection Form.
- Intervention will only occur once surveillance of the suspect has confirmed the need for direct action.
- Any intervening action should be taken with extreme caution.
- If intervention is required, it will be in response to a very obvious incident e.g. a physical assault on a child or vulnerable adult. The nature of the incident will dictate the response and action. If necessary the Police should be summoned. However, if a delay would place the child/adult in further danger, club leaders and helpers should take appropriate action. Anyone intervening must not place themselves at risk and must only use “reasonable force” as a last resort.
- Once appropriate action has been taken, the incident must be immediately reported to the Management Committee who will inform the Tamezin office. The Police, Social Services or the Child Protection Helpline will be informed as appropriate. In any event the Child/AV Protection Form should be completed.

- In appropriate cases, where it is safe to do so, the individual concerned should be made aware that their conduct or actions are unacceptable and are giving cause for concern.
- Do not attempt to detain the individual or get involved in any physical contact.

TAMEZIN does not have insurance cover for anyone who fails to comply with these requirements.

4.6 Allegations from Third Parties

- If you are informed of a concern by another person, such as a parent or a someone living in the building used for club activities, you must act in accordance with the reporting procedure.
- If possible or expedient, investigate the allegation and record any observations.

4.7 Reporting a Colleague

- Your first responsibility is to safeguard children: therefore any concerns about the conduct of a colleague must be recorded and reported to the Management Committee or the Tamezin Office using the Child/VA Protection Report Form.
- Do not disclose the fact that you are making a report to the individual concerned or any other colleagues.
- If the concern is about your own Manager, do not discuss the concern with them or show them the report. These concerns must be reported to the Safeguarding Lead and the Tamezin Office kept informed.
- Always maintain confidentiality.
- It is important to remember that when any allegation has been made against a fellow club leader or helper, the person making the allegation, and those investigating the case, must remain impartial.

4.8 False Allegations against TAMEZIN club leaders or helpers

Club leaders or helpers working with children in any situation are vulnerable to accusations of abuse. Their relationships with children generally may lead to allegations against them by children, parents or other persons.

The paramount concern is that the child should be safeguarded from all forms of harm. This means that the protection of children takes precedence over other issues including disciplinary procedures.

Allegations may be false, malicious or misplaced and may be either deliberate or innocent of such intent. Regardless of the motives underlying any allegations, Tamezin will always take any allegations seriously and these will be investigated impartially.

Where following initial consideration by the Tamezin managers or directors that the allegation is demonstrably false by virtue of the fact that the immediate circumstances of the allegation show that it would not be possible for it to be true, then the matter can be dealt with at Centre level. However, in these circumstances, it should be borne in mind that if a child has made an obviously false allegation, this may well be a strong indicator of abuse elsewhere which requires further exploration. The issues will be discussed with the Designated Safeguarding Lead. The allegation may indicate inappropriate behaviour or poor practice by a club leader or helper which needs to be considered and acted upon if necessary. This may include the need for further training.

APPENDIX 5: DEFINITION OF VULNERABLE ADULTS

The Safeguarding Vulnerable Groups Act, Section 59, provides that a vulnerable adult is a person aged over 18 or over who:

- Is living in residential accommodation, such as a care home or a residential special school;
- Is in sheltered housing;
- Is receiving domiciliary care in his or her own home;
- Is receiving any form of health care;
- Is detained in prison, remand centre, young offender institution, secure training centre or attendance centre or under the powers of the Immigration and Asylum Act 1999;
- Is in contact with probation services;
- Is receiving a welfare service of a description to be prescribed in regulations;
- Is receiving a service or participating in an activity which is specifically targeted at people with age related needs, disabilities or prescribed physical or mental health conditions or expectant or nursing mothers living in residential care (age-related needs includes needs associated with frailty, illness, disability or mental capacity);
- Is receiving direct payments from a local authority/HSS body in lieu of social care services;
- Requires assistance in the conduct of his or her own affairs.

In all the above settings and situations adults need to be able to trust the people caring for them, supporting them and/or providing them with services.

APPENDIX 6: EXAMPLES OF VULNERABLE ADULTS

- Adult receiving health care:

Mr A attends a hospital appointment. During his appointment he is receiving health care and so is a vulnerable adult. This means that those carrying out his health care must be DBS checked. Once he leaves the hospital setting Mr A returns to work and is no longer in one of the settings listed above or in receipt of the health care and so is no longer to be treated as a vulnerable adult.

- Adult attending a day care centre

On Tuesdays Mrs B attends a day care centre which provides social activities for frail older people. During her time at the day centre she is receiving a service which is provided specifically for people with age related needs and so is a vulnerable adult. On Wednesdays Mrs B visits the library. During her time at the library she uses a service which is targeted at the general public and so is not a vulnerable adult.

- Adult Living in Local Authority Housing receiving support through supporting people services.

Mr C is residing in social housing provided by the local authority, he receives tenancy support services to help with daily living, the primary purpose of this support is to help Mr C sustain his tenancy and to assist him in living independently, for example to help him access his welfare entitlements, advising him on maintaining his tenancy or, accessing a community alarm. The Supporting People programme provides housing related support to help prevent problems that can often lead to hospitalisation, institutional care or even homelessness. It can also help the smooth transition to independent living for those leaving an institutional environment. Whilst Mr C is in receipt of these services, he is a vulnerable adult.

APPENDIX 7: MAKING A DIRECT REFERRAL OF ABUSE OF A VULNERABLE ADULT

Making a Referral direct

Before making a referral, wherever possible you should obtain as much information as possible about the person you are concerned about by asking or researching the following questions:

- Name
- Date of Birth
- Gender
- Address
- Ethnic Origin
- Service user group – over 65's, learning disabled, physical disability, mentally ill health, deaf, blind, substance misuse, HIV, or any other group.
- Other agencies that the vulnerable adult is known to
- Details of where the vulnerable person is from if not from this area
- Detail about the alleged abuse, and include dates and times.
- If third party referral, details of who raised the initial concern e.g. friend, carer, or other service user
- Where the alleged abuse took or is taking place
- What type of abuse is suspected, e.g. discriminatory, psychological, sexual, financial/material, physical, neglect.
- Details of the alleged perpetrator i.e. name, address, age and gender
- Relationship with the service user i.e. neighbour, partner, club leaders or other family member etc.

If you are in doubt and you are not sure whether to refer, or how to refer, contact the person responsible for safeguarding.

APPENDIX 8: TYPES AND INDICATIONS OF ABUSE

Four main types of child abuse are defined in the UK Government guidance Working Together to Safeguard Children 2010 (1.33 – 1.36) as follows:

- Physical abuse
- Emotional abuse
- Sexual abuse
- Neglect

However, in more recent years there has been an increase two specific types of abuse: Online Abuse and Radicalisation.

Radicalisation

“Radicalisation” refers to the process by which a person comes to support terrorism and forms of extremism leading to terrorism. During that process it is possible to intervene to prevent vulnerable people being drawn into terrorist-related activity. It is a sad fact that young people - schoolgirls and schoolboys – have been persuaded to take part in terrorist activities and even to leave the country to join terrorist groups, with tragic consequences. Those working on projects run by TAMEZIN must be alert to any signs of extremist attitudes held by attendees and report their concerns immediately.

Online Abuse

Social media has made it very easy for children to communicate quickly and easily with family, friends and acquaintances, as well as sharing experiences. Their conversations and comments can be closely targeted or widely broadcast to the point that they can go viral. Unfortunately, social media is also widely used by abusers; many perpetrators ‘hide’ behind the fact that they may not be able to be readily identified.

Online abuse takes several forms, and victims are not confined to public figures. They can do any job, be of any age, gender, sexual orientation or social or ethnic background, and live anywhere. Those attending TAMEZIN club may even be abused online by fellow club members, classmates or other acquaintances.

Types of online abuse include:

Cyberbullying

This generally comprises sending threatening or otherwise nasty messages or other communications to people via social media, gaming sites, text or email, posting embarrassing or humiliating video on hosting sites such as YouTube or Vimeo, or harassing through repeated texts, instant messages or chats. Increasingly, it is perpetrated by posting or forwarding images, video or private details obtained via sexting, without the victim’s permission. Some cyberbullies set up Facebook pages and other social media accounts purely to bully others.

Cyberstalking

Cyberstalking is persistent unwanted contact from another person – either someone known or a stranger. Anyone can be a target.

Cyberstalkers have many different motives, including those who feel wronged by their target, or just derive pleasure from scaring other people.

Sexting

Sexting is a modern word that is made by combining the words sex and texting. It involves the sending or exchanging of sexual content using a phone or any digital device. Sexting might be done via traditional texting (sending a text message from one phone number to another), using social media messaging services or via any of the popular messaging apps such as WhatsApp or Snapchat. Some young people may sext casually because they think it is funny or as a kind of bravado in front of their friends. Sexting becomes a grave issue if the contact is unwanted or if it is being done as part of a grooming scenario or to purposely get private messages, photos or videos from a person in order to hurt or extort them.

Grooming

Online grooming is the building of a relationship via the internet where trust and an emotional connection is established for the purposes of exploitation such as sexual abuse, trafficking and criminal exploitation, as well as radicalisation. Children and young people can be groomed online by people they know such as a professional, a friend or a family member as well as strangers.

Online sexual abuse and exploitation

This occurs when someone is tricked or forced into any sexual activity. This can be tricking or forcing someone to watch, make or share a sexual video or view a sexual image, as well as taking part in sexual activities or sexual conversations online whether written, verbal or live streamed. Online sexual abuse is often a precursor to physical sexual abuse.

Types of child abuse defined in the UK Government guidance Working Together to Safeguard Children

Physical abuse

Physical abuse may involve hitting, shaking, throwing, poisoning, burning or scalding, drowning, suffocating, or otherwise causing physical harm to a child. Physical harm may also be caused when a parent or carer fabricates the symptoms of, or deliberately induces, illness in a child.

Indications of Physical Abuse

Most children will collect cuts and bruises as part of the rough-and-tumble of daily life. Injuries should always be interpreted in light of the child's medical and social history, developmental stage and the explanation given.

Most accidental bruises are seen over bony parts of the body, such as elbows, knees, or shins, and are often on the front of the body. Some children, however, will have bruising that is more than likely inflicted rather than accidental.

Important indicators of physical abuse are bruises or injuries that are either unexplained or inconsistent with the explanation given, or visible on the 'soft' parts of the body where accidental injuries are unlikely: cheeks, abdomen, back and buttocks.

A delay in seeking medical treatment when it is obviously necessary is also a cause for concern, although this can be more complicated with burns, as these are often delayed in presentation due to blistering taking place some time later.

The physical signs of abuse may include:

- unexplained bruising;
- marks or injuries on any part of the body;
- multiple bruises - in clusters, often on the upper arm or outside of the thigh;
- cigarette burns;
- human bite marks;
- broken bones;
- scalds, with upward splash marks;
- multiple burns with a clearly demarcated edge.

Changes in behaviour can also indicate physical abuse:

- aggressive behaviour or severe temper outbursts
- flinching when approached or touched
- reluctance to get changed, for example in hot weather
- depression
- withdrawn behavior
- running away from home
- fear of parents being approached for an explanation of their child's behaviour

Emotional Abuse

Emotional abuse is the persistent emotional maltreatment of a child. It may give rise to severe and persistent adverse effects on the child's emotional development.

It may involve conveying to children that they are worthless or unloved, inadequate, or valued only insofar as they meet the needs of another person.

It may include not giving the child opportunities to express their views, deliberately silencing them or 'making fun' of what they say or how they communicate.

It may feature age or developmentally inappropriate expectations being imposed on children. These may include:

- interactions that are beyond the child's developmental capability

- overprotection
- limitation of exploration and learning
- preventing the child participating in normal social interaction
- seeing or hearing the ill-treatment of another
- serious bullying (including cyberbullying)
- causing children frequently to feel frightened or in danger
- the exploitation or corruption of children.

Some level of emotional abuse is involved in all types of maltreatment of a child, though it may occur alone.

Indications of Emotional Abuse

Emotional abuse can be difficult to measure, as there are often no outward physical signs. There may be a developmental delay due to a failure to thrive and grow, although this will usually only be evident if the child puts on weight in other circumstances, for example when hospitalised or away from their parents' care.

Even so, children who appear well-cared for may nevertheless be emotionally abused by being taunted, put down or belittled. They may receive little or no love, affection or attention from their parents or carers. Emotional abuse can also take the form of children not being allowed to mix or play with other children.

Changes in behaviour which can indicate emotional abuse include:

- sudden speech disorders
- self-harm
- neurotic behaviour such as sulking, hair twisting or rocking
- being unable to play
- fear of making mistakes
- fear of a parent being spoken to about their behavior
- a developmental delay in terms of emotional progress.

Sexual Abuse

Sexual abuse involves forcing or enticing a child or young person to take part in sexual activities, not necessarily involving a high level of violence, whether or not the child is aware of what is happening.

The activities may involve:

- physical contact, including assault by penetration (for example, rape or oral sex) or non-penetrative acts such as masturbation, kissing, rubbing and touching outside of clothing.
- non-contact activities, such as involving children in looking at, or in the production of, sexual images, watching sexual activities, encouraging children to behave in sexually inappropriate ways, or grooming a child in preparation for abuse, including via the internet.

Sexual abuse is not solely perpetrated by adult males. Women can also commit acts of sexual abuse, as can other children.

Adults who use children to meet their own sexual needs abuse both girls and boys of all ages, including infants and toddlers. Usually, in cases of sexual abuse it is the child's behaviour that may cause you to become concerned, although physical signs can also be present.

In all cases, children who tell about sexual abuse do so because they want it to stop. It is important, therefore, that they are listened to and taken seriously.

Indications of Sexual Abuse

The physical signs of sexual abuse may include:

- pain or itching in the genital area
- bruising or bleeding near the genital area
- sexually transmitted diseases
- vaginal discharge or infection
- stomach pains
- discomfort when walking or sitting down
- Pregnancy

Sudden changes in behaviour can also indicate sexual abuse. Examples include:

- becoming aggressive or withdrawn
- fear of being left with a specific person or group of people
- having nightmares
- running away from home
- sexual knowledge which is beyond their age or developmental level
- sexual drawings or language
- bedwetting
- smearing faeces onto toilet walls
- eating problems such as overeating or anorexia
- self-harm or mutilation, sometimes leading to suicide attempts
- saying they have secrets they cannot tell anyone about
- substance or drug abuse
- suddenly having unexplained sources of money
- not being allowed to have friends, particularly in adolescence
- or acting in a sexually explicit way towards adults.

Neglect

Neglect is the persistent failure to meet a child's basic physical and/or psychological needs, likely to result in the serious impairment of the child's health or development. Neglect may occur during pregnancy as a result of maternal substance abuse.

Once a child is born, neglect may involve a parent or carer failing to:

- provide adequate food, clothing and shelter (including exclusion from home or abandonment)
- protect a child from physical and emotional harm or danger
- ensure adequate supervision (including the use of inadequate care-givers)
- ensure access to appropriate medical care or treatment

- respond to a child's basic emotional needs

Indications of Neglect

Neglect can be a difficult form of abuse to recognise, yet has some of the most lasting and damaging effects on children.

The physical signs of neglect may include:

- constant hunger
- stealing food from other children
- being constantly dirty or 'smelly'
- loss of weight, or being constantly underweight
- inappropriate clothing for the weather conditions

Changes in behaviour which can also indicate neglect may include:

- complaining of being tired all the time
- not requesting medical assistance and/or failing to attend appointments
- having few friends
- mentioning being left alone or unsupervised.

Bullying

The damage inflicted by bullying can frequently be underestimated.

Bullying may be defined as deliberately hurtful behaviour, usually repeated over a period of time, where it is difficult for those bullied to defend themselves. It can take many forms, but the three main types are physical (e.g. hitting, kicking, theft), verbal (e.g. racist or homophobic remarks, threats, name calling) and emotional (e.g. isolating an individual from the activities and social acceptance of their peer group).

Bullying can cause considerable distress to children to the extent that it affects their health and development or, at the extreme, cause them significant harm, including self-harm. All settings in which children are provided with services or are living away from home should have in place rigorously enforced antibullying strategies.

Indications of Bullying

Signs that a child may be being bullied can be:

- coming home with cuts and bruises
- torn clothes
- asking for stolen possessions to be replaced
- losing dinner money
- falling out with previously good friends
- being moody and irritable
- depression
- low self-esteem
- shyness
- poor academic achievement
- isolation
- threatened or attempted suicide

Bullying is not always easy to recognise as it can take a number of forms, such as:

Physical:

- pushing
- kicking
- hitting
- pinching
- other forms of violence or threats

Verbal:

- name-calling
- sarcasm
- spreading rumours
- persistent teasing

Emotional:

- excluding
- Ignoring ('sending to Coventry')
- tormenting
- ridiculing
- humiliating
